(54) DRAWING CHECKING METHOD

(57)Abstract:

PURPOSE: To facilitate comparing operation, to make a clear check without placing any burden on an operator, and to improve the efficiency of operation when an automatic drawing input device compares a recognition result of characters and figures of an inputted drawing with the original and making the check.

CONSTITUTION: A 1st process (1) is for a drawing input and the original drawing is inputted by a scanner, etc., and stored. In a next process (2), the original image is recognized and the result is stored as well. A following process is for plot editing output and the original image and recognition result are plotted on one drawing one over the other. At this time, the original image and recognition result are superposed while shifted on the same reduction scale, and they are plotted by specifying colors according to the areas of the original image and the contents of the recognition results corresponding to the areas. Further, a character check drawing and a figure check drawing are classified and plotted, and the circumscribed rectangles of character strings are plotted on the character check drawing at the same time. Those drawings are used for checking operation (4) and correcting operation (5).
